Miss Mary E. Bowersox

To You We Dedicate . . .

Maybe if we listen closely, we'll hear Miss Bowersox singing as she gaily types a test.

Perhaps the word dedication best summarizes the career of this teacher. She has proved her dedication by her many years of faithful service to her profession. Her willingness to assist a student needing extra help and her ready sense of humor have endeared her to all of her students, past and present, and to her co-workers.

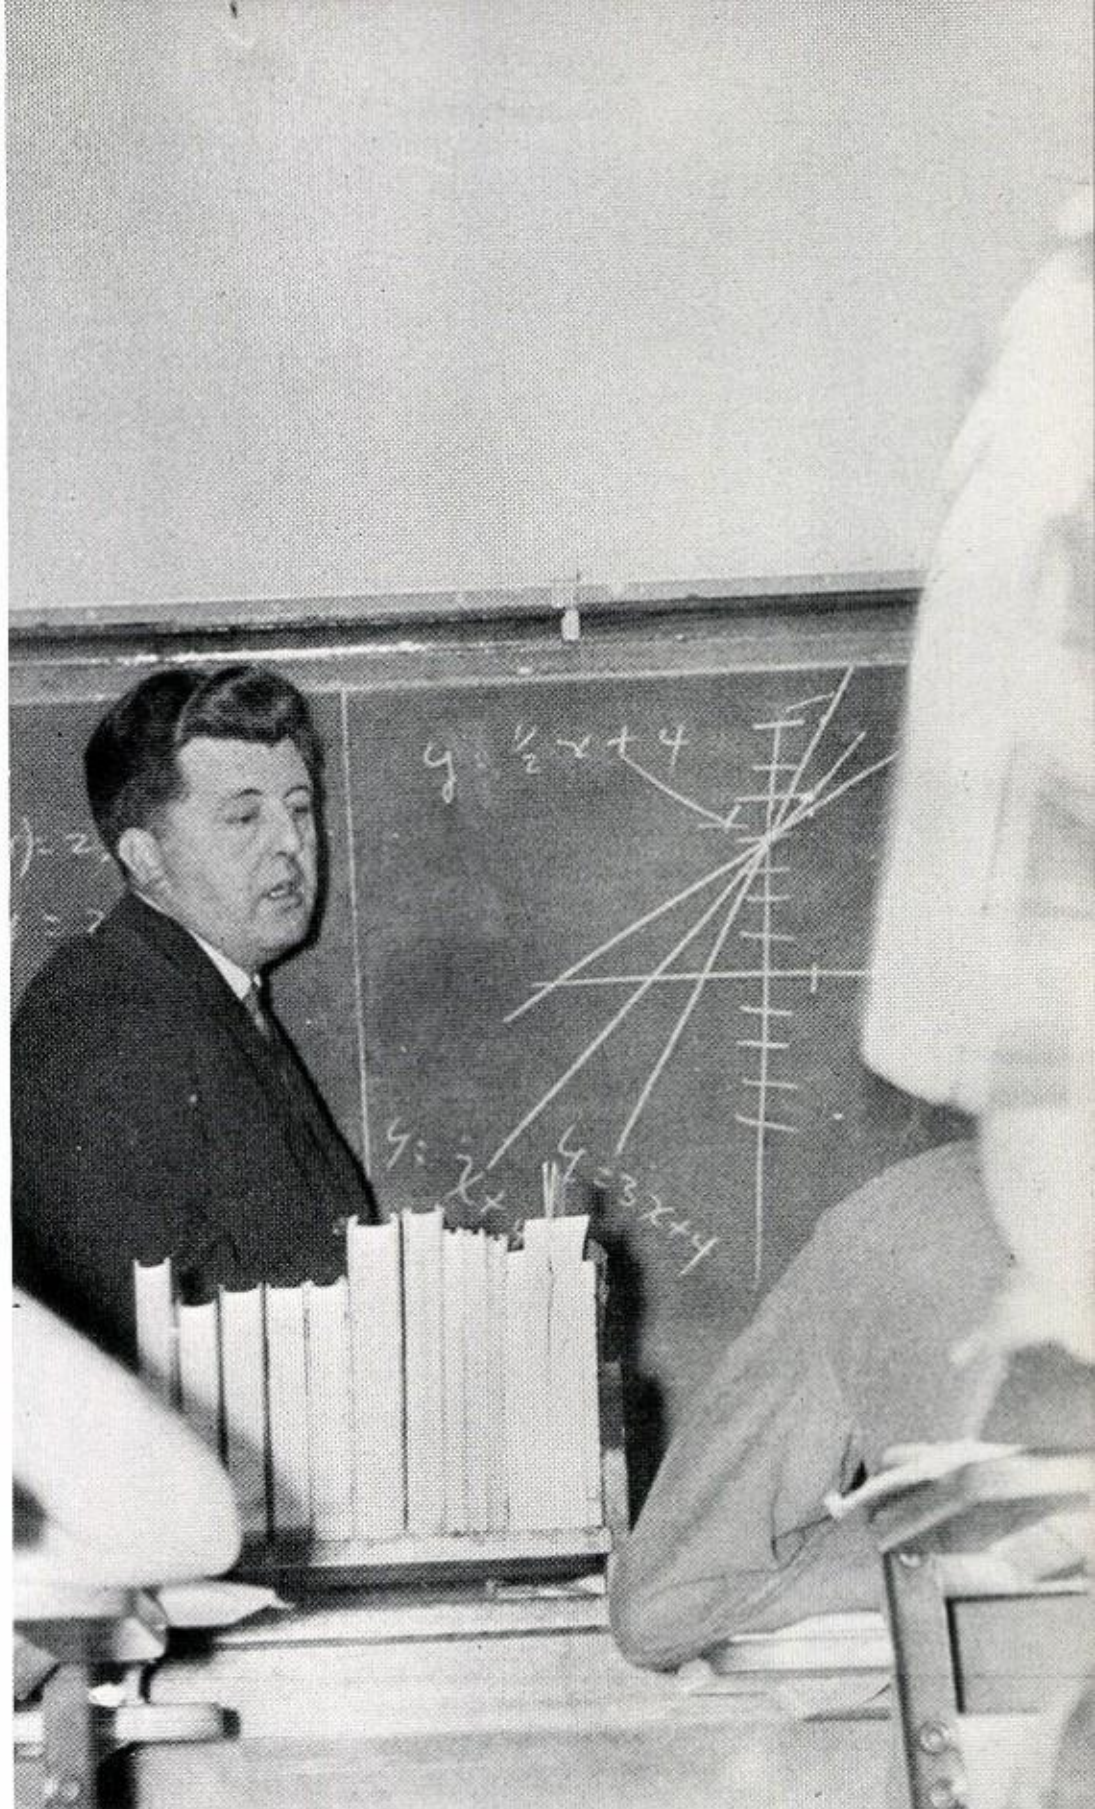

The magazine drive, one of the biggest projects of the school year, has been under her capable supervision for years. As adviser of the Future Business Leaders of America and of the Student Council, she has been kept very busy. However, she still finds time for her two favorite hobbies—raising flowers and collecting stamps. She is also an avid camera-woman.

To you, Miss Bowersox, in appreciation and gratitude for the many hours of service and help you have given us, we dedicate the 1967 Monitor.

They Are Always Understanding

Miss Jane L. Stoddard and Mr. Richard E. Felker, our guidance counselors, have endeavored to offer a program of personal guidance to the students. This guidance is both formal and informal and takes the form of vocational guidance, educational guidance, behavioral guidance, and follow-up counseling.

The counselors with their sympathetic and understanding ways try to assist the students so that they can better solve their own immediate problems as well as the situations and problems that will face them in the future.

English Enriches the Life of the Individual

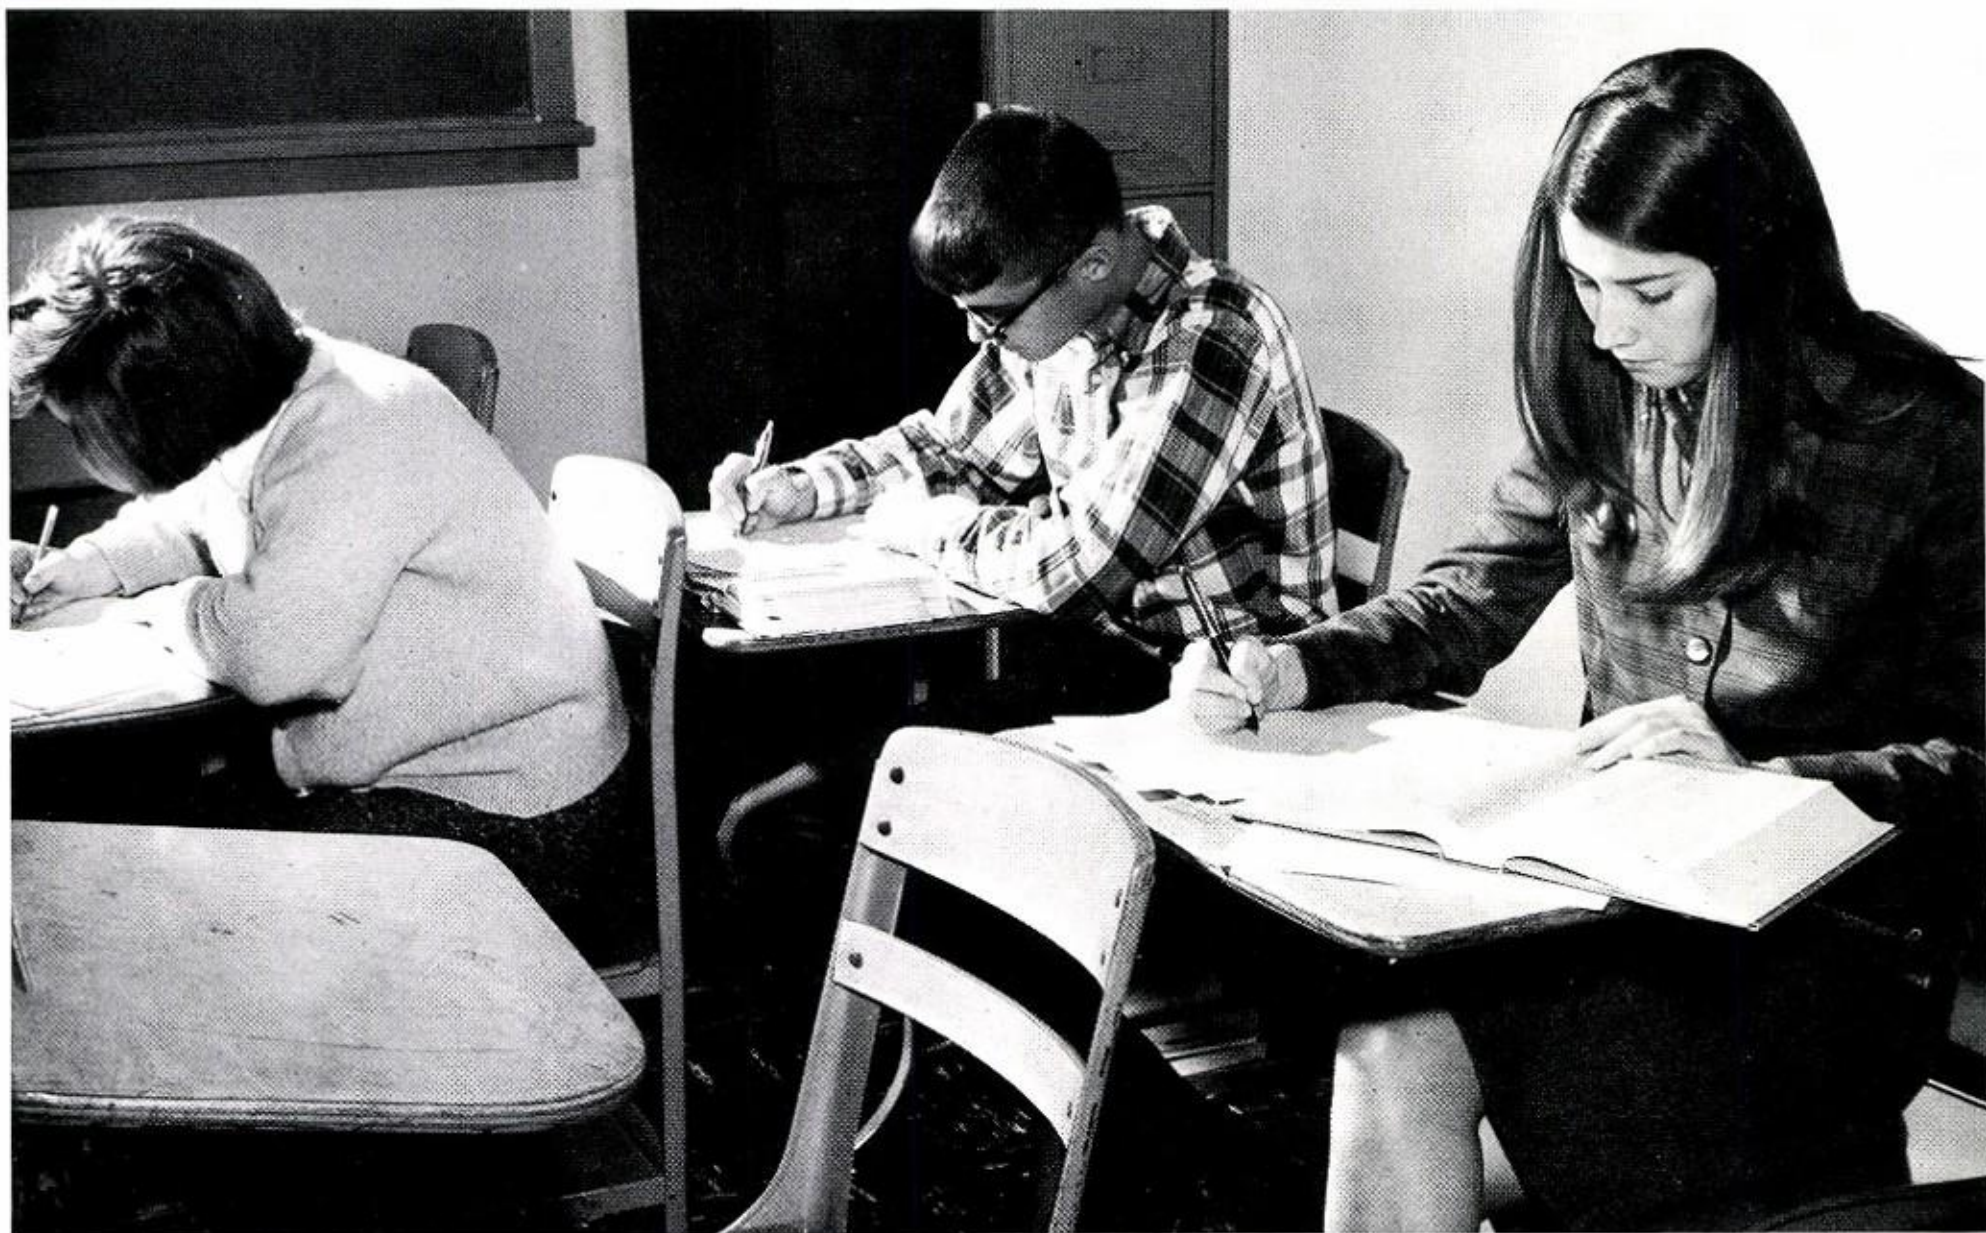

English helps to enrich the life of an individual by helping him read with comprehension, speak with clarity and fluency, and write with correctness and effectiveness. Because of the importance of language to a student's personal, occupational and social life, every effort is made to relate the English curriculum to these needs.

Because the double period of English scheduled once each week for academic seniors has helped them to improve their writing skills this year the double period has been provided for academic juniors as well.

The reading and English programs stress building word power and understanding and evaluating what a student reads, very necessary skills for living in our complex society.

Mrs. Noll's Seventh grade pupils, Patricia Goodling and Bill Best, are studying adverbs to help build their English knowledge.

Ann Hassinger, Steve Steffen, and Martha Erdley express their ideas and use their knowledge of English grammar in Mrs. Long's writing periods.

Science and Mathematics Are Ever-Challenging

During the school year we have been investigating and using to the best advantage the source materials available for overhead projection. This added tool with proper teacher preparation and use is one more step toward making the study of science fascinating and exciting.

"Modern mathematics" is a misnomer because what is being called modern mathematics, new mathematics, etc., is not new but has been around quite a long time, in fact, for several centuries. What makes it new or modern is the approach to mathematics or the method of teaching it. The vocabulary and terminology are not even new, even though most people, including teachers, are becoming acquainted with it for the first time. During the several years we've been using it most students have been finding it interesting and challenging, although some are not in favor of it.

Business Students Prepare for Responsibilities of the Future

Since the field of business is becoming more and more recognized as one of the most important areas of American life, business students are preparing themselves for the job of assuming responsibility for leading America in world progress. At the same time they are gaining the tools with which to build their own future.

Business demands that we improve our thinking and acting so that we may achieve a desirable way to earn a living, an understanding of how business may serve us and of how we may serve others, and constant alertness to ways of improving our skills and conduct so that the greatest good may come to the greatest number.

Spanish Program Is Expanded

This year for the first time the Spanish program was expanded to include students in the Seventh and Ninth grades. Using the aural-oral approach, students in Seventh grade had conversational Spanish. Students in the Ninth and Tenth grades used the same program but in greater depth. Students in the second and third level continued the study of the language and culture of the Spanish speaking people through the use of filmstrips, records, speeches, and projects, as well as the text.

Vocational Agriculture and Industrial Arts Present Possible Vocations

With the increasing population agriculture students realize the need for educated agriculture personnel. Agriculture workers are needed on the farm, in off-farm agriculture occupations, and in professional agriculture fields.

In the agriculture course boys are preparing for farming by owning, managing, and keeping records on their farming programs. Some are preparing for agriculture work off the farm by participating in a supervised occupational work experience program. Others are taking academic courses in addition to agriculture which will prepare them for college training in agriculture.

"Let's work!" That's the cry of industrial arts students. While working, they are learning what is necessary to do a job well by learning the use and care of tools, the "feel" of cutting and forming wood and metal, the control of their developing muscles, and about industry and its great contributions to our society.

Instruction is given in leathercraft, metal work, wood work, and mechanical drawing.

Roger Keister uses the metal lathe to cut metal for various shop projects during his senior year.

Linda Romig and Connie Ewig are preparing for their futures as mothers in Mrs. Wendel's baby care class.

Home Economics Helps Girls to be Better Homemakers

Our home economics course is designed to help girls enjoy homemaking and to be worthy contributors in their present homes and to prepare for assuming responsibilities in their own future homes.

Units included in the course are: Personal and Family Relationships, Gracious Living, Family Health, Foods and Nutrition, Clothing, Child Care and Guidance, Home Furnishing and Arrangement, and Personal-Home Management of Time, Energy, and Money.

We Keep in Tune with the Times

The Seventh grade music classes are very versatile. They have been making their own instruments as well as playing them, especially in the percussion group.

Eighth grade has been trying to do the various dances they have been learning about. It is really surprising to see the agility of the students.

Not to be outdone by the other junior high classes, the Ninth grade has been doing some composing and arranging and performing their own works.

The junior high music department is keeping in tune with the times.

Art Is A Means of Expression and Interpretation

Our society, dependent upon the aesthetics of today, reflects itself in the type of expression and interpretation each student demonstrates in art class. The junior high student is required by law to attend such classes while the high school student uses the instruction and facilities as a means to express, enjoy, and interpret himself within his contemporary environment. A course that is designed to make the student more independent and self-reliant through the process of problem solving and self-evaluation is programed for grades seven through twelve. These features are important in assisting these young adults to mature into productive, independent, and proud citizens. It is one of the few courses that forces the student to make decisions and to question the many answers, all of which may be the correct answer.

Christie Yerger and Jim Shrawder are displaying their art talent by creating cartoons.

Health and Physical Education Help Us to Live Sensibly

In health class the students learn about the many problems that affect the mind and body. They get the foundation of sensible health rules and how to keep the organs and systems working properly. As people grow older, this knowledge should guide their actions and thoughts so that they will live intelligently.

A coral reef, a mermaid, a sunken ship, and schools of fish provided an undersea atmosphere for the Junior-Senior Prom, Fantasy of the Sea, held last May 6 in the auditorium of the Middleburg Elementary School. Music was provided by Mal Arter and his orchestra. The high point of the evening came at ten o'clock when Christine Garman and Tedd Ritz were enthroned and crowned to reign over the festivities. This selection of the queen and king had been done previously by votes cast by juniors and seniors.

This dance proved to be one of the outstanding events of the year.

Jenny Crowned Queen of Hearts

On February 19 the annual Queen of Hearts Dance, Sponsored by the Key Club, was held in the Middleburg Elementary School.

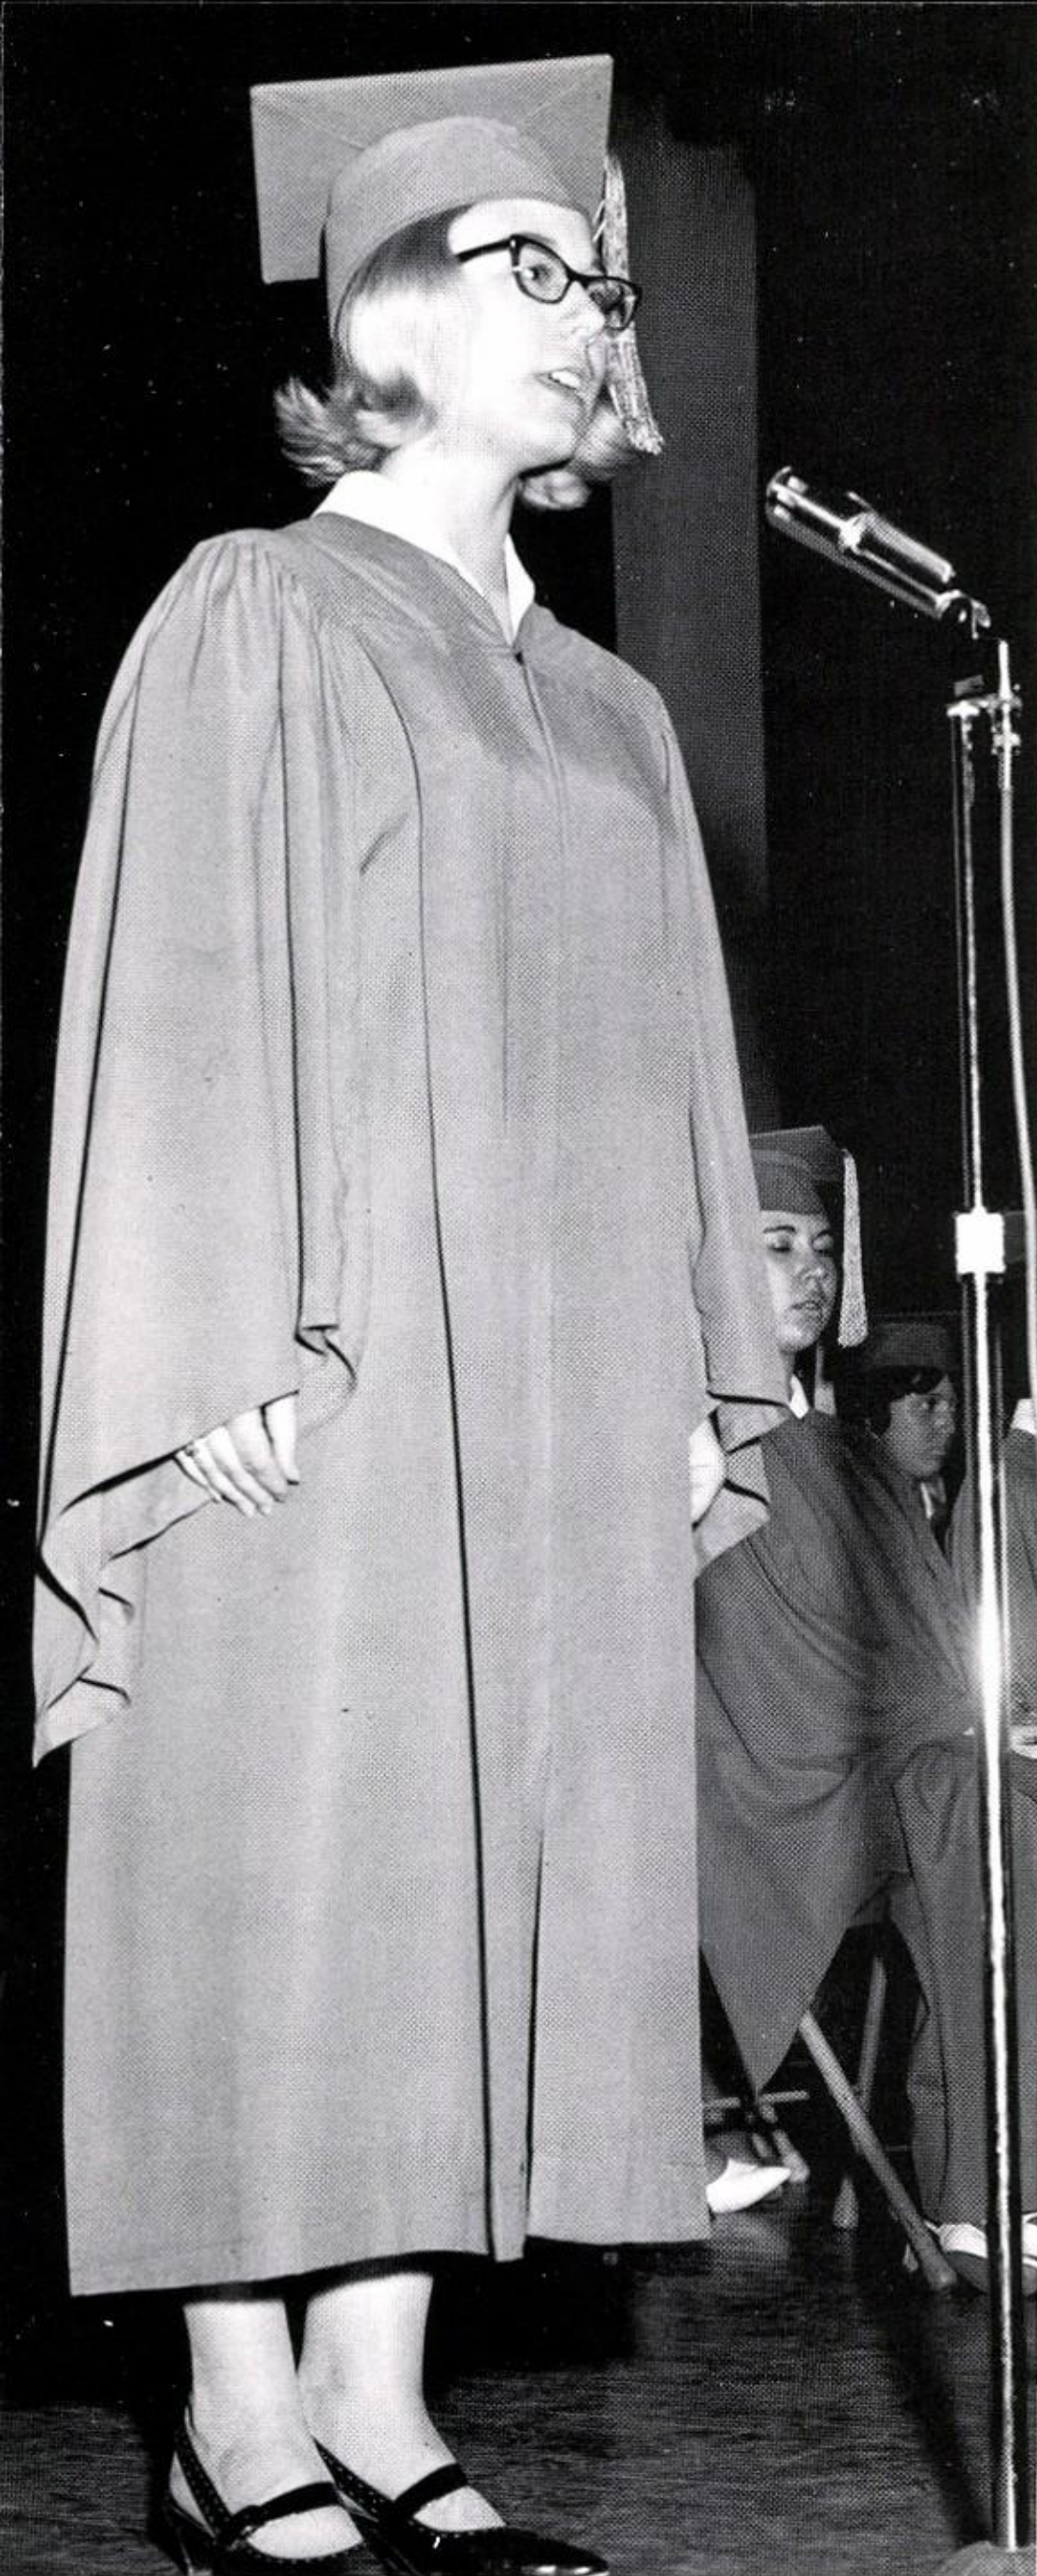

Students had voted for their favorite candidate by placing money in the container displaying her picture. From the seven girls who competed for the honor, Jenny Newcomer was chosen to reign as queen.

Music by the Deltas, the crystal ball, and the beautiful decorations provided a fitting atmosphere for an exciting and enjoyable evening.

Jenny Newcomer, Queen of Hearts for 1966, was crowned by Bonnie Wagner, last year's queen.

Allenby Family Dilemma

Seventeen is Terrific, a family situation comedy, was presented by the Class of 1968 under the direction of Miss Beverly Pecht on November 18. The play concerned the hero, Chuck Allenby, who tried to raise five dollars to take his girlfriend, Ginny, to the big dance. The comedy revolves around Chuck's attempts to raise the money. The play was a success and enjoyed by all.

Varied Activities Spark Life at MJHS

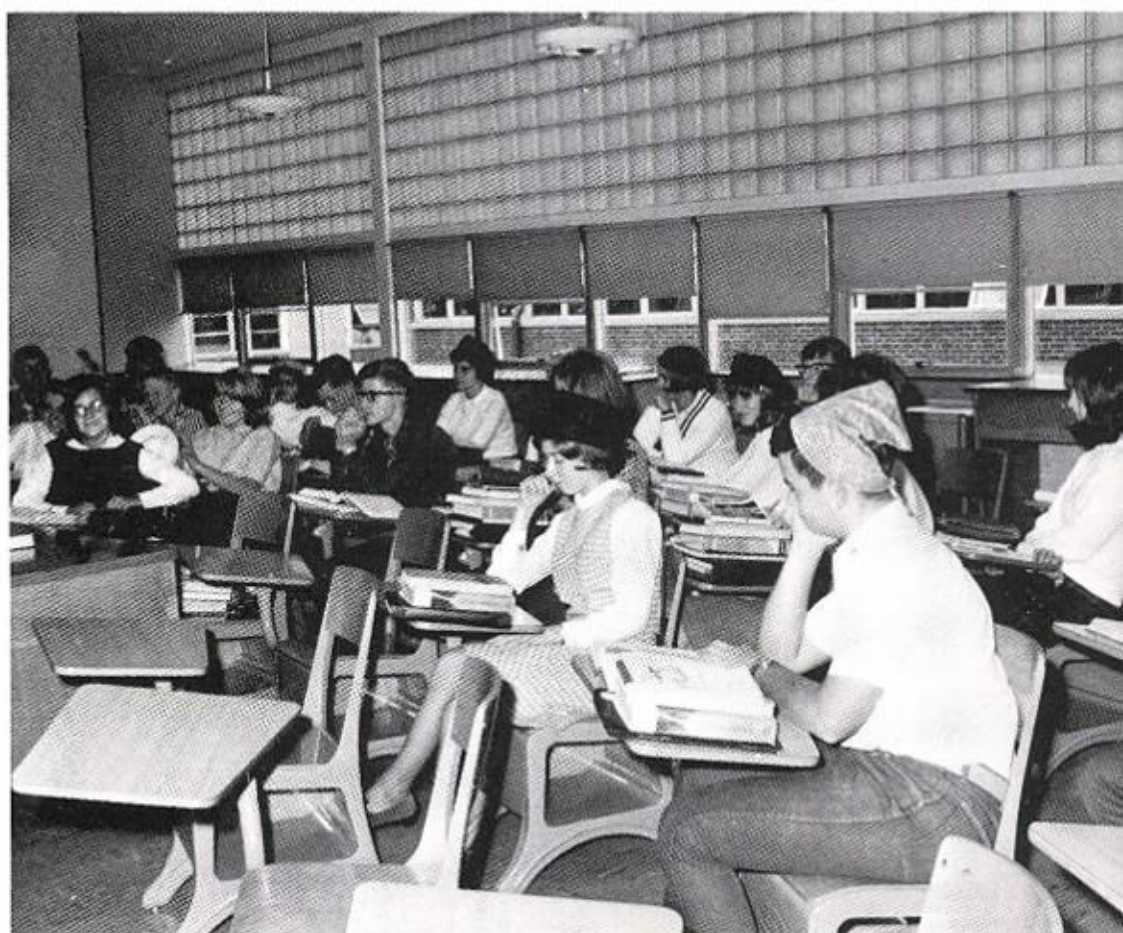

Sue Ann Stetler and Cindy Griffith, FTA initiates, are seen wearing dark glasses as all the new FTA members were required to do for one day.

Apprentice Tri-M members attended classes wearing "kookie" hats as part of their initiation into the organization.

Jean Bingaman, Dolly Haines, Kay Hommel, and Cheryl Hackenberg, magazine drive co-captains, are looking over the prize orders with Miss Bowersox, head adviser of FBLA.

Miss Winey, Mr. Orris and his son, Darryl, are shown after the 1966 spring concert, The Sound of Music.

On May 12 and 13 Miss Stoddard and Mr. Felker conducted future seventh graders through the high school, introducing them to the teachers and giving them an opportunity to observe classroom procedures. Miss Stoddard is talking with a few girls in the guidance office.

At the awards assembly on June 2 Tedd Reitz received the best all-round athlete trophy from Mr. Harold Decker, representing the Tri-County National Bank of Middleburg.

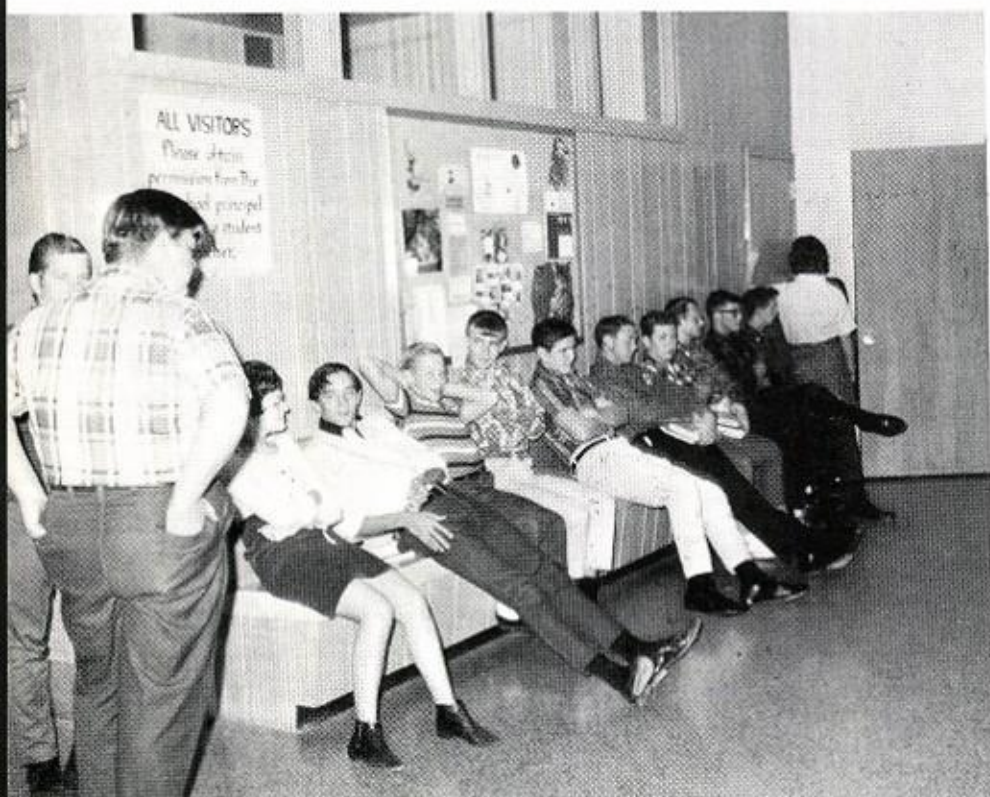

The annual banquet for honor students was held May 3, 1966, at the Kreamer Fire Hall. Honor students, parents, and teachers attended.

School Life Proves Eventful

Judy Kreamer, Paul Fogel, and Marilyn Hess are "goofing off" during the annual tenth grade trip to Corning, N.Y.

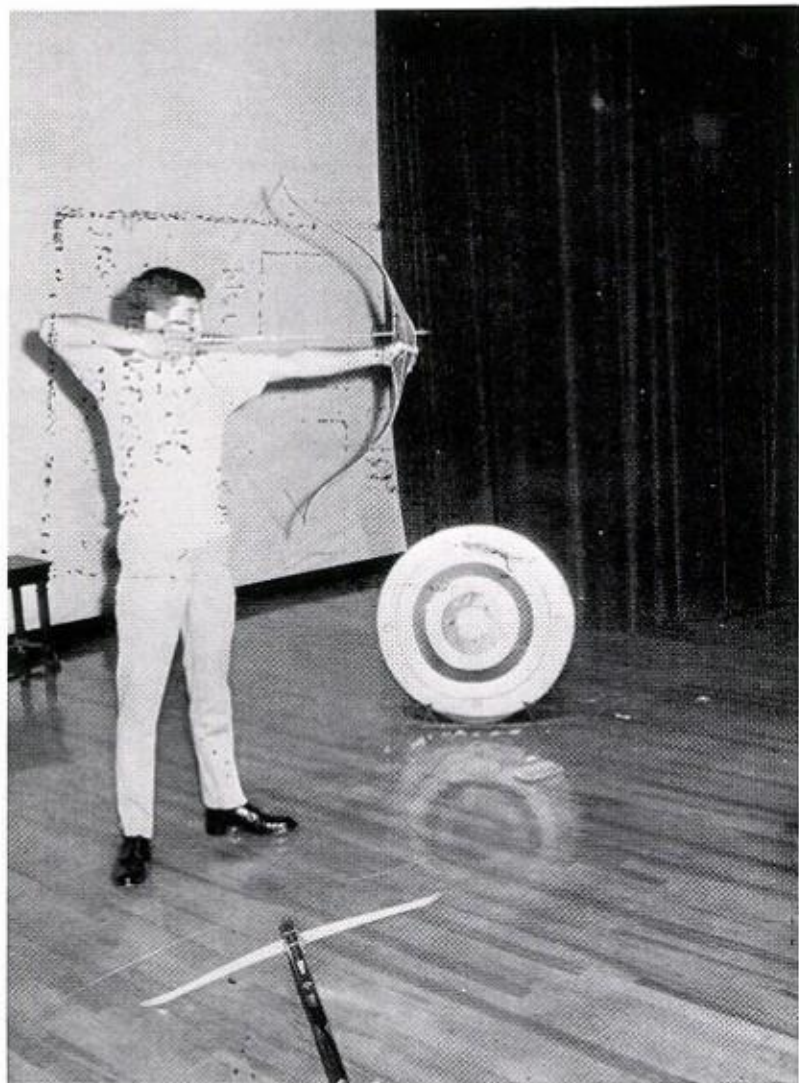

Some daily benchwarmers are waiting their turns to see Mr. Wetzel.

This post-election board was done by Mr. Graybill for his social studies classes to accompany a lesson entitled The Off-Year Election.

In January MJHS was represented at the District Chorus held at Selinsgrove by Joseph Dunkelberger, Ellen Hassinger, Paul Fogel, Jeffrey Schuck, Harry Best, and Debby Bachman. (Debbie was absent when the picture was taken.)

Allen Stewart, a professional archer, showed his expert form to the students at an assembly in November.

Carol and Maurice Phillippi, a dance team, presented an assembly, Physical Fitness through Rhythmics, on September 14.

Harry Best had the distinction of being chosen for State Chorus held in Harrisburg on December 8. Here he practices some of his music while Miss Winey accompanies him.

MJHS Student Council was the host for the District Student Council Convention on April 15, 1966. After the convention a dance was held for the delegates.

Blue and Gold Band Wins Distinction

Strike up the band! Beat the drums! Sound the cymbals! Middleburg Joint High School Band is on the march. The band again captured first place in the Sunbury Halloween Parade in October.

Two outstanding members brought honor to the band. Jerry Valentine was chosen to play solo trumpet in District Band. Bob Stock, the twirling drum major, became the Pennsylvania State Men's Twirling Champion for the second year. His name was again listed in the annual edition of Who's Who in Baton Twirling.

Christmas Musical Highlights the Year

A trip around the world through music was a highlight of the Christmas Musical when the Senior High Chorus presented A Jingle Bell Travelogue. The chorus, ensemble, the Junior High Choruses, and the octet presented many other Christmas numbers, old and new, for the pageant.

The ensemble and the octet were kept busy all year with requests to sing in many of the area churches.

ENSEMBLE: Ann Hassinger, Ann Bingaman, Debbie Bachman, Cynthia Griffith, Nancy Benner, Fay Hassinger, Martha Erd'ey, Marilyn Hess, Ellen Hassinger, Kay Hommel, Ruth Gill, Sandra Chubb, Iris Boyer.

Student Council is the Governing Body of the School

Under the able leadership of Ellen Hassinger the council undertook such projects as the clothing drive, the charity drive, distributing peaches to teachers on the first day of school, and working with the FBLA on the magazine drive. This year is also marked as the first year when the students had the opportunity of volunteering to serve as monitors during the passing of classes.

Middleburg Student Council members also very unselfishly looked to the future. They felt that if they could pass on to succeeding councils anything of worth, they should do so. In all their acts they felt this way.

Ellen Hassinger, Student Council President, (center) instructs chairmen of the standing committees in their duties. These chairmen are Jeffrey Schuck, Connie Ritter, Richard Nornhold, Robert Mitchell.

Jerry Felker, President, and Ann Hassinger, Vice-President, are discussing plans for an F.T.A. meeting.

Future Teachers Study Career Opportunities of Teaching

F.T.A. seeks to help its members to explore teaching as a career and to identify and study the qualities and characteristics of successful teaching. Members had opportunities to observe children of different ages as they learn and develop under the guidance and leadership of competent teachers. Films, filmstrips, speakers, panels, and visitation of a college helped each member to discover for himself what it takes to become a good teacher, and to obtain accurate information on vocational opportunities in education.

On November 11 the Future Teachers of America entertained faculty members and employees at a coffee break to celebrate American Education Week. Mr. Graybill is being served by Richard Nornhold. Mr. Felker is helping himself to refreshments while Jerry McClellan and Jeff Schuck are working at the coffee maker.

Key Club Serves School and Community

In keeping with its purpose of serving people, the Key Club carries out several community and school projects each year. This year the projects included the making of new fire exit signs, and the delivery of Christmas baskets to the needy. In addition, the Queen of Hearts Dance in February was sponsored by the club.

In conjunction with the Tri-M the Key Club sponsors the Record Library. Steve Steffen and Bob Brubaker are serving as librarians during one of their study halls.

HONOR SOCIETY OFFICERS: Harry Best, Treasurer; Diana Dinius, Secretary; Steve Dale, President; Marilyn Hess, Vice-President.

National Honor Society Sets High Standards

Quo Vadis Chapter of the National Honor Society each year admits to membership only students who have demonstrated their scholarship, character, leadership, and service qualifications. Because some students in the past have found it difficult to maintain the high standards set by the national organization, the Faculty Administrative Committee this year revised the point system required for admission. By making the points more difficult to attain, the number of students qualifying has been greatly reduced.

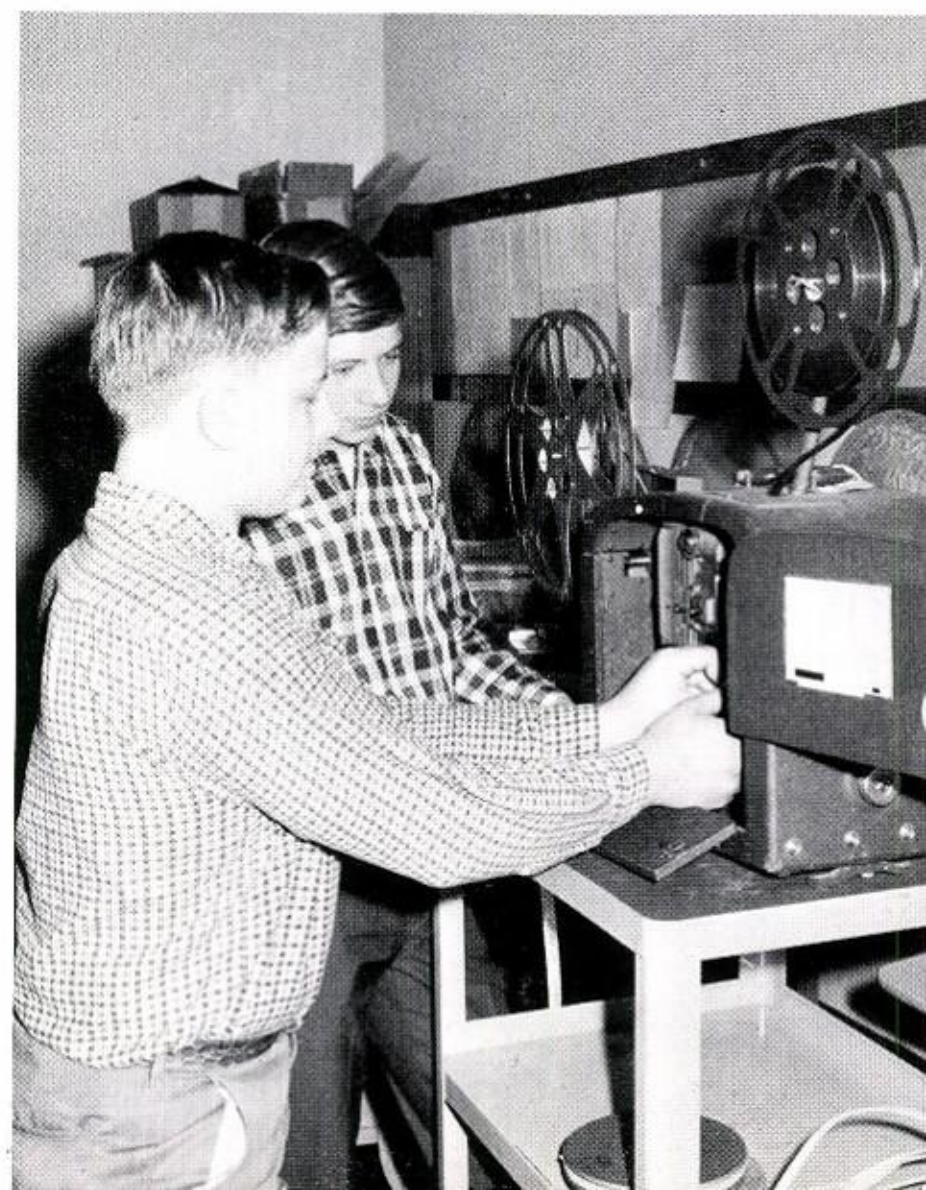

After five years and more than five hundred dollars contributed to the support of Jose Esteban Steven Cruz Vasquez, this project was dropped as Jose had outgrown the need for our help. The membership voted, instead, this year to help in any way possible, the Student Council's effort to secure an exchange student.

Kenneth Benner and Dennis Reigle are working on a movie projector.

Students Aid Teachers in Audio-Visual Programs

The Audio-Visual Club, now in its fourth year, continues to serve the school by providing reliable students to aid teachers who request assistance in presenting motion picture or other audio-visual programs.

The club members, advised by Mr. Graybill, also gain knowledge for themselves that will be worthwhile after they are graduated.

F.N.C. Prepares Girls for a Future Career in Nursing

Future Nurses' Club President, Ruth Yerger, and member Linda Breon are weighing and measuring one of the young patients at the well-baby clinic.

Future Nurses Club had a varied program this year which consisted of seeing films about nursing, hearing speakers on the subject, and taking field trips to nursing schools. As a community project club members aided at the State Children's Clinic in Middleburg.

Members Encourage School Spirit

Varsity M was started to recognize school athletes and to cultivate and promote an interest in athletics throughout the school.

The club purchased a Victory Banner. When one of our teams wins a game, we fly the white victory ribbon, and when the team loses, we fly the black defeat ribbon.

Joe Walter, Trena Sheaffer, and Susie Meiser are hanging the school's victory flag.

All Aspects of Homemaking Are Stressed

Assembling Cancer Drive envelopes and making diddy bags for the Red Cross are some of the services the Junior F.H.A. has done for the community. A group of girls presented a demonstration in an F.H.A. booth at the State Farm Show in January.

Besides collecting money for UNICEF the Senior F.H.A. girls made favors for the guests at the nursing home in Middleburg.

As part of the initiation for membership in Junior F.H.A., Ruth Zeiders, Georgianne Kratzer, and Ruth Benner wore this "Sunbonnet Sue" attire during one day of school.

Janice Winey had the honor of serving as third vice-president of the Pennsylvania State Future Homemakers of America Organization.

Senior High F.H.A. Adviser, Miss Barbara Ferster, gives final instructions to Lena McClellan and Clarice Winey before they start out on UNICEF collection night.

Monitor Jr. Keeps Students Informed

MONITOR JR. entered its nineteenth year of publication under this same nameplate with Senior Editor Gary Goodling in charge. While retaining the nameplate, the lettering has been changed from the old English to modern type.

Other changes from previous years include use of school beauties as models for advertisers who take three or more column inches of advertising, and the inclusion of more pictures.

The junior high club is used as a talent training club which should promote additional improvement of the editions. Selective competition will be used to set the staff for '67-68.

Staff members Ruth Reichenbach, Linda Kreamer, and Faith Shirk are preparing the newspaper to be sent to servicemen.

Commercial Field Is Explored

New F.B.L.A. members are shown modeling their initiation outfits—Susan Aurand, Dana Erb, Lynn Shambach, Cheryl Walter, and Jean Walter.

Middleburg's F.B.L.A. was proud when Loretta Bowersox was elected president of Region VII. Besides taking a trip to Thompson Institute and to the capitol at Harrisburg, the F.B.L.A. had charge of the Thanksgiving Assembly and the Magazine Drive.

Eighth Graders Are Introduced to Agriculture

Eighth grade boys who desire work in some phase of agriculture are familiarized with the broad field itself. They also are enabled to examine the occupations available in this field. The members of the Junior Agriculture Club go on field trips, see slides, and have group discussions. The major activity is in April when the group attends the Agriculture Open House at the Pennsylvania State University.

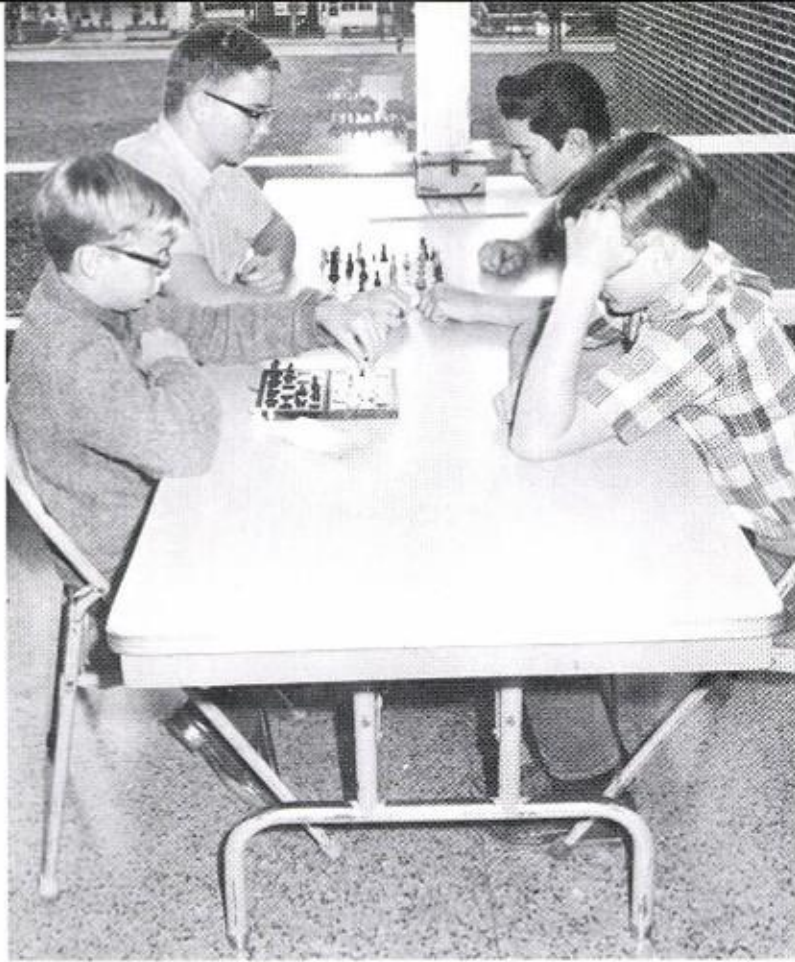

Mr. Apple, Adviser, is explaining Roberts Rules of Order to Michael Ackley, Roger Reichenbach, and Steve Rhoads.

FFA Boys Develop Leadership

Middleburg F.F.A. boys have won many awards, the most outstanding one being the National Chapter Emblem Award. This award is received by only three chapters in each state. To receive this award a chapter must have an outstanding program of activities, which include supervised farming, co-operation, community service, leadership, earnings and savings, conduct of meetings, scholarship, recreation, public relations, and participation in state and national activities. This is the first time the chapter has received this honor since it was organized in 1929. The award was received by three members, Marlin Heintzelman, Kenneth Smith, and Clyde Moyer, and Mr. Apple, their adviser, at the National FFA Convention held at Kansas City, Missouri, in October.

We Develop Concentration Playing Chess

Chess Club was formed by Mr. Austin because of an interest among the students in the game. This game of concentration requires a person's planning his attack and his defense.

Studying hunter safety rules are Lee Snyder and Eugene Haines.

Members Study Safety Habits

The Safety Ed. Club is composed of boys from the Eighth and Ninth grades interested in promoting safety. The club this year stressed hunter safety, driver education, pedestrian safety, as well as safety in the school and home.

We Learn about Old and New Cars

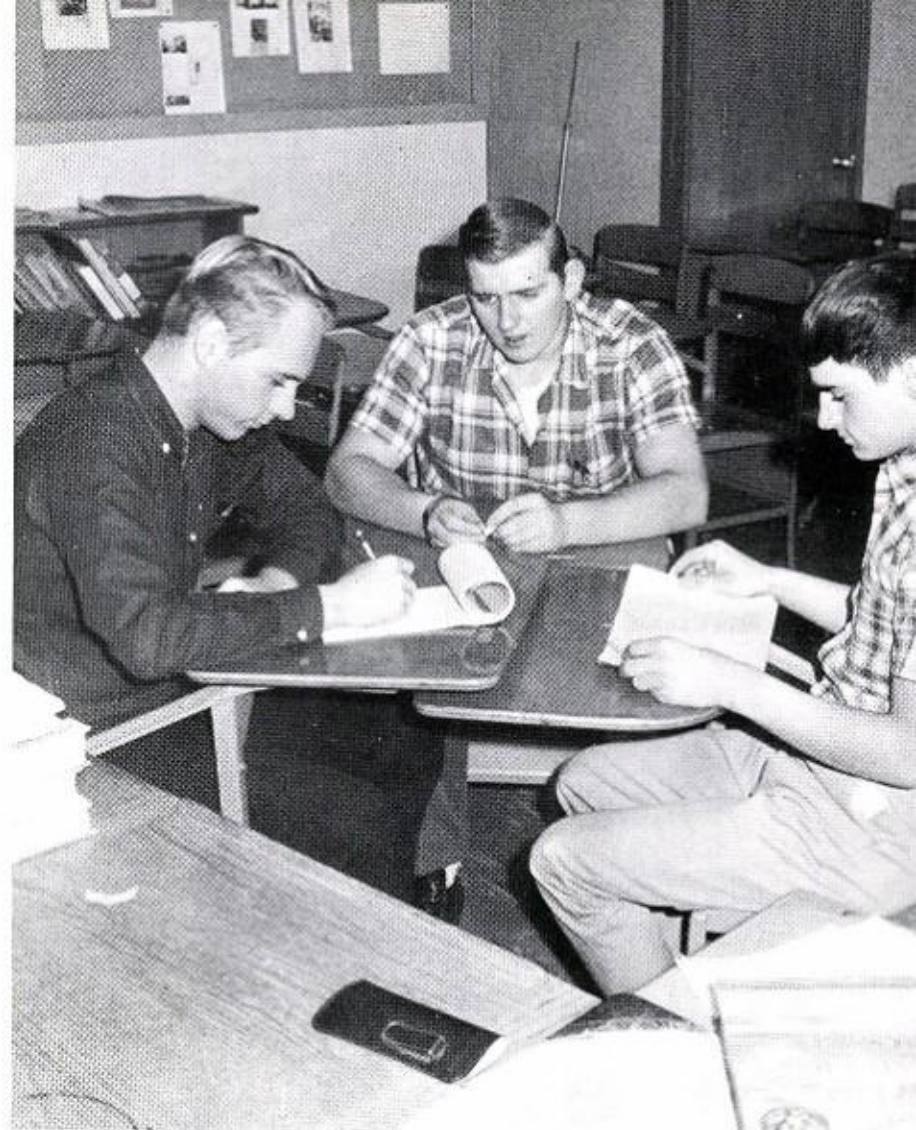

Begun this year by Mr. Burns, the Car Club provided an outlet for just a few boys who were interested in the various aspects of automobiles. During this activity the boys saw films about cars, displayed their models, and learned some basic mechanics.

Boys Study Business Opportunities

Members of the Career Club had several opportunities to learn about area industries on their tours through the Beavertown Weaving Mills, Princess Homes, and the steel mills at Burnham.

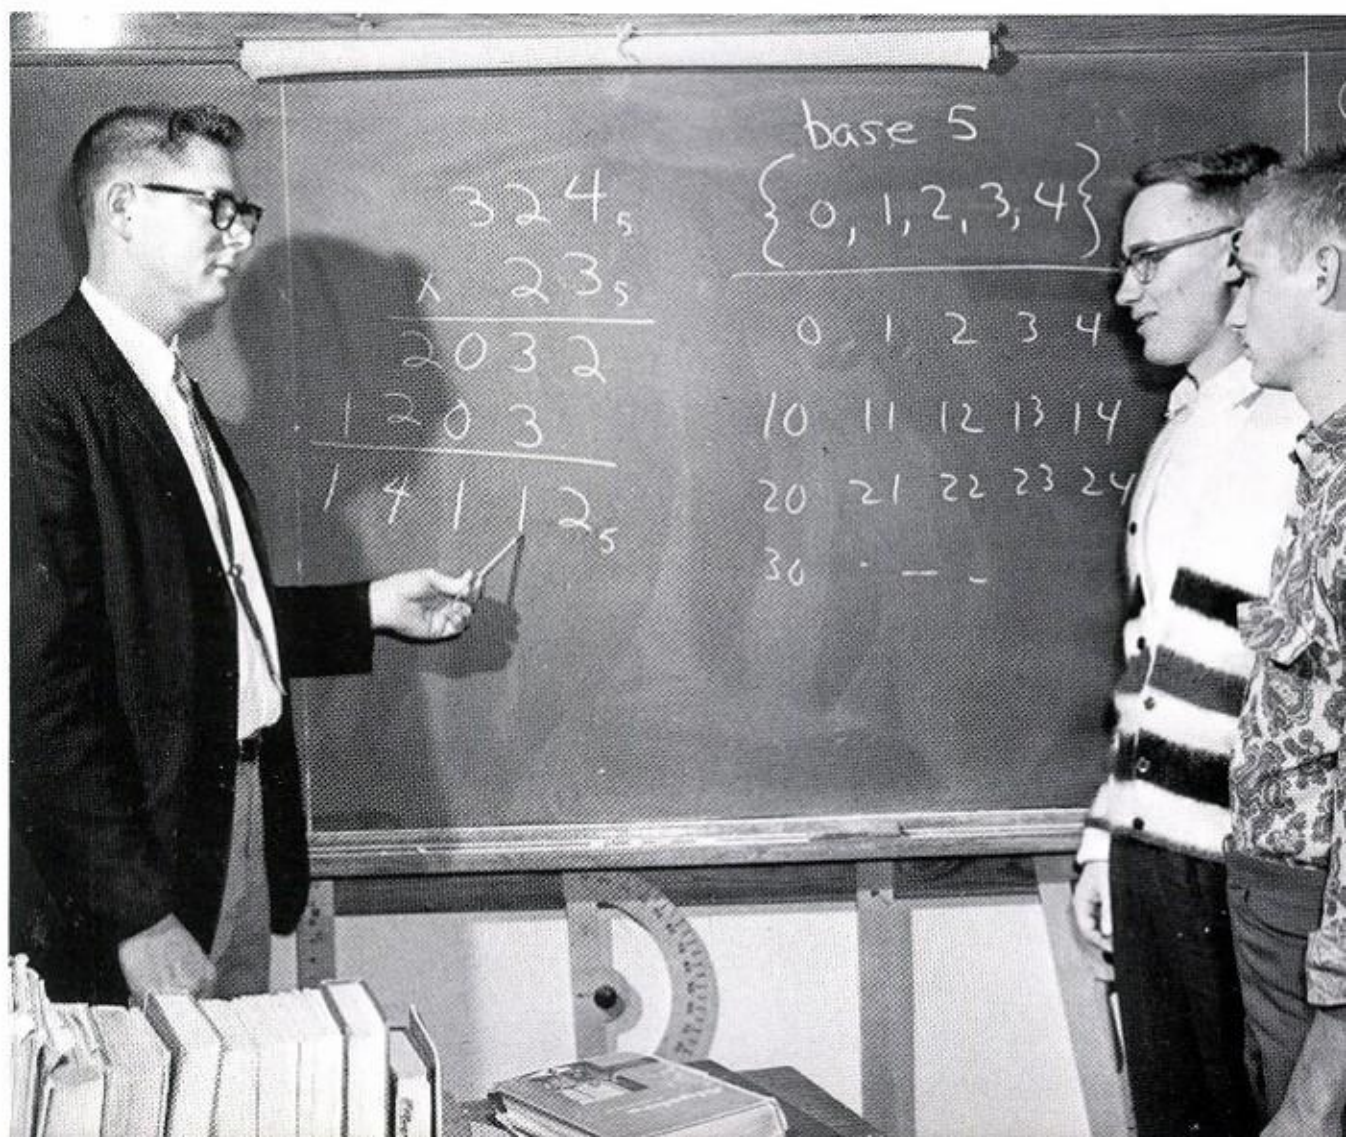

Tim Hartley, Russell Spriggle, and Richard Walter compare notes after the visit to Beavertown Weaving Mills.

College-Bound Students Study Modern Math

Mr. Shamory instructs John Doersam and Robert Steffen in problems in advanced math.

One of the new clubs formed this year is the Mathematics Club. It was formed to discover what is so-called modern mathematics and to study selected topics of new mathematics.

Business Managers Ann Bingaman and Linda Steininger check over yearbook subscription blanks so see that all is in order for delivery.

Monitor Staff Works to Meet Its Deadlines

Long hours of hard work went into the '67 Monitor. The staff was busy drawing layouts, taking pictures, and writing articles so that the final deadline could be met.

Monitor Co-editors Harry Best and Dinius and Adviser, Miss Louise Madl, are preparing layout mats and pictures to meet the final deadline.

MONITOR SECTION EDITORS: Seated: Steven Dale, Trena Sheaffer, Diane Sheaffer; Carolyn Walter, Leanna Walter, Dolly Haines, typists; Jeannie Bingaman. Standing: Michael Kerstetter, Rudy Heintzelman, Lila Fuhrman, Ruth Gill, Joselyn Yerger, Kenneth Smith, Robert Steffen.

Inexperience Keeps Middie

Although the Middies finished the season with a fine record of 9-4-1 and defeated every team in the league, they did not succeed in obtaining the championship. Coach Boonie did a fine job with the team, which was hindered by lack of experience. Sophomore Mick Nornhold defended the goal well throughout the season. Seniors Joe Walter and Phil Womer were a great help to the team and were elected to the All-Star team. Next year an experienced front line should lead the Middies on to another great season.

... on the Move

Determination, teamwork, and fine shooting add up to a winning season for the varsity this year. Although the team lost many of their experienced players last year, veterans Barry Hallman, Phil Womer, John Doersam, Ron Zeiders, and Steve Dale are expected to lead the team on to victory. Coach Carl Winey inspires enthusiasm and good sportsmanship in the players.

Phil Womer and Ron Zeiders fight for a rebound during a practice scrimmage.

Lena McClellan attempts to score while Diane Sheaffer tries to block the shot.

Beginning their second year in the new Susquehanna Valley League the girls will be competing with Lewisburg, Milton, West Snyder, Selinsgrove, and Mifflinburg. Although the team lacks experience, their enthusiasm and strong desire to bring championship honors to Middleburg will keep the team lively this season.

Bonnie Dinius and Susan Weber try to out-smart opponent, Bev, Meiser, in an out-of-bounds play.

GIRLS' VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM: Wendy Maurer, Diane Sheaffer, Karen Hackenberg, Susie Meiser, Dolly Haines, Mrs.

Experience Helps Middies Post Winning Season

Last spring experience and fine coaching by Coaches Felker and Bonnie helped the Middies to post another winning season, with eight victories and only three defeats. Although the team lost a good pitching staff, including Tedd Reitz and Rich Snook, the Middies, led by Coach Bonnie, are looking forward to another good year in 1967.
